DANCES, PIC-NICS, BARBECUES

Notes of Personal and General Intere from All the Cities and Principal Towns of the State.

Petersburg. PETERSBURG, Va., June 11.—A beau-ful sentiment was silently but elotiful sentiment was silently but eloquently expressed at the marriage Wednesday night at the Washington-Street Methodist Episcopal church of Dr. Victor M. Epps and Miss Rosemary Hall. The bride is the daughter of the late Rev. Charles H. Hall, who died while pastor of this church, and in his memory a marble tablet has been placed on the sade of the pulpit. This tablet was beautifully entwined with an evergreen vine, which was trained around the chancel to the spot where the bride and groom stood before the minister. It spoke eloquently of the blessing of the father upon the marriage of the daughter.

Norfolk. the Richmond Dispatch.] Nonrolk, June 11.—The gay revelry NORFOLK, June 11.—The gay revelry of the city is now hushed to a considerable extent and the social whirl is at the seashore. The hotels are fast filling up with guests and the cottages are mostly occupied. The evening trains go down crowded with city people, who enjoy the delights of these fashionable resorts until the "last bell" rings and then return home refreshed and invigorated. The regular evening excursions to Old Point have not yet commenced, but private tug parties are made up nightly and many go down to the ever-delightful "Point" in that way.
